The University of Miami European Union Center and the Consortium of Jean Monnet Chairs of the Americas cordially invite you to a briefing on:

“European Union-Africa relations and regional integration”

by

Dr. Edmund Abaka
Professor, University of Miami, Department of History

When: Tuesday, Oct 13, 2020 12:30 PM-1:45 PM Eastern Time (US and Canada)
To receive virtual meeting access, please RSVP to: m.goergmaier@miami.edu

Dr. Edmund Abaka is a scholar and a documentary-style photographer who has exhibited his work in libraries and galleries in Miami. Dr. Abaka earned his PhD in African History from York University, Canada. A professor in the Department of History, University of Miami, Dr. Abaka teaches the general African history survey classes (History of Africa to 1800 and Africa Since 1800), and specialized courses such as Africa and Cuba (Africa in Cuba/Cuba in Africa), Southern Africa to Nelson Mandela, the African Diaspora in South Florida and Pan-Africanism: Africa, North America and the Caribbean. His graduate classes include Pre-colonial Africa (to 1800), European Expansion in Africa or Colonialism and Imperialism (1884-1945), the African Diaspora, Slavery in Africa or Slavery and Emancipation and African Historiography.

Dr. Abaka’s research interests cover commodities and trade in West Africa, Sites of Historical Memory in Africa and the Diaspora, Migration, Identity and Citizenship, and Students and Popular Political Protest in Ghana.

For more information:

Professor Joaquín Roy,
(305) 284-3266
jroy@miami.edu

Dr. Melanie Goergmaier
(305) 284-3266
m.goergmaier@miami.edu