Cognates: Writing Credit, People and Society, European Politics.

This course is an integral part of two special tracks sponsored by the EU Center: “Atlantis”, dedicated to the triangular relationship between the EU, the US and Latin America, and “Mare Nostrum”, on Mediterranean studies.

This course will first deal with the fundamental dimensions of the European Union, its history and institutions, its essence and its theoretical framework, as well as its potential as a model and point of reference for regional integration around the world in a comparative approach. The second part will be dedicated to systematic analysis of selected cases of regional integration in key parts of the world. After a summary consideration of comparing the EU’s nature with other cases of regionalism in the European vicinity, in Asia and Africa, the course will deal with EU’s linkages with the Americas. Consideration will be given to the North American Free Trade Area (NAFTA), as an example of the influence of the US-led model of regional integration and cooperation, and the planned Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) between the EU and the US, and its implications in Latin America. Discussions then will deal with the EU’s practice of North-South development aid and cooperation in the Caribbean and Central America. The course then will review the links between the EU in the wide South American region, studying the development of regional cases such as the Andean Community and MERCOSUR, and newcomers such as UNASUR, the Community of Latin America and Caribbean States (CELAC), the Alliance of the Pacific, and other frameworks such as the ALBA and the Ibero-American Community .

Having your video turned on in class is mandatory. Having your video off may result in counting you as absent from class.

Class Attendance Policy:

Attendance in the virtual class is required as scheduled. If you cannot attend the virtual class due to illness or other reason, you must contact the instructor. Unexcused absences from the classroom may affect your grade or lead to failing the course.

Camera While Remote: There is a requirement that students will have their camera on if they are attending a session remotely. That is, the requirement is for students who are remote/ online to engage visually with faculty by enabling their video. Students are required to have their video enabled during the entire online class.

Recordings: Students are expressly prohibited from recording any part of this course. Meetings of this course might be recorded by the University. Any recordings will be available to students registered for this class as they are intended to supplement the classroom experience. Students are expected to follow appropriate University policies and maintain the security of passwords used to access recorded lectures. Recordings may not be reproduced, shared with those not in the class, or uploaded to other online environments. If the instructor or a University of Miami office plans any other uses for the recordings, beyond this class, students identifiable in the recordings will be notified to request consent prior to such use.

Intellectual property: Faculty work hard to create their courses, and this semester is certainly no exception. Pursuant to the University's Policy on Inventions, Intellectual Property, and Technology Transfer, "courseware" includes course syllabi, assignments, assessments, and/or other materials that are first created and made available to students as part of the educational curriculum at the University. Courseware is owned by the faculty member, unless otherwise agreed to beforehand in a written contract between the University and the faculty member. This policy and position have not changed due to recent circumstances, and this policy and definitions apply in the same manner to courses delivered in virtual environments, whether in a synchronous or asynchronous format.

Professor Joaquin Roy is the copyright owner of the courseware; individual recordings of the materials on Blackboard and/or of the virtual sessions are not allowed; such materials cannot be shared outside the physical or virtual classroom environment.

Total grade: 100%

Letter grade equivalence:

70-75: C

76-79: C+

80-85: B

86-90: B+

91-95: A

96-100: A+

Concept and Structure of papers:

Title (innovative), introduction-lead (Who, when, what, where...), main corpus, conclusion.

Use the Hemingway style, or United Press International (UPI) editing code: short sentences, affirmative, no subordinate constructions. This novelist used to say that he managed to learn how to write following the style instructions of UPI. At that time, editors prescribed the frugal economy of text volume because long dispatches were very expensive using the usual telex technology.

Sources: a minimum of 4-5 (balance of books, academic articles, think tank papers, EU official documents, and possibly one press report of recent publication –1-2 months); it is also expected that in each of the papers at least one academic source produced by the EU Center is used and cited.

Format: any, but consistent

Documentation: complete data: author (complete last name and first name, or name of institution), title, date (complete), pages, and electronic link if accessed through internet. Insert citation within text (after a word, line, of paragraph) or in a parenthetical method, not only listing at end of essay

Language: impeccable spelling, composition subject to editing by colleagues or UM Writing Center. Ask yourself this question: Would I send this to the NY Times/ Financial Times or good think tank, for consideration and publication? You would not? Then, don't send it to me.

Sending: by email (not through Blackboard) to my address: jroy@miami.edu, and copy to all participants of the course. Single space, copy and paste main body of essay-file and attach Microsoft Word file as well.
